FLORASUN 90

Product Introduction

Today, personal care consumers are opting for natural products. Usually high quality vegetable oils are used for its emollient properties. However, these natural lipid-based emollients are not stable. To overcome this instability in products anti oxidants are usually added into the formula to improve the stability. But this does not improve the stability significantly.

Florasun 90 (INCI : Helianthus Annus (Sunflower) Seed Oil) is a natural, triglyceride oil that has high oxidative stability and excellent emollient properties. Florasun 90 which has less than 5% polysaturates is more stable than traditional sunflower, sesame, conola or high oleic Safflower oil which contain 69%, 43%, 29% and 14% polysaturates, respectively.

Properties

Florasun 90 contains more than 85% oleic acid and less than 4% linoleic acid. It is the high levels of monosaturates (oleic acid components) and low levels of polyunsaturates (linoleic acid) that gives Florasun 90 superior oxidative stability.

Typical properties of Florasun 90 can be obtained from its Technical Data Sheet.
